

April 17, 2018

The following is to provide support of emeritus status for Linda Rosulek.

Linda began her career at UNI first as an adjunct in the Curriculum and Instruction Department and later full time in the Department of Teaching as a student teaching coordinator. She also taught at the Northeast Iowa Community College. Her responsibilities as a coordinator in the Mason City/Charles City Regional Center included placing and supervising multiple student teachers each year, providing ongoing mentoring, evaluating performance, and teaching seminars. A large part of her responsibility included serving as a liaison between the local schools and the University. She was highly respected by those with whom she worked.

Linda was not required to publish as part of her assignment. However, she did publish and had numerous presentations to a variety of audiences. She was active on numerous committees and served as a mentor, not only to her student teachers, but to new coordinators who joined our staff. Linda was always willing to serve on committees because she believe it was important to advance our profession of education. She felt it was her responsibility to go above and beyond expectations to model commitment to the profession for her students. She was exemplary in her work with our future teachers.

On behalf of the Department of Teaching, I highly support Linda's nomination to emeritus status.

Terri A. Lasswell, Ed. D.
Associate Dean, College of Education
Head, Department of Teaching
University of Northern Iowa