To Whom It May Concern:

I am very pleased to support Kenneth Lyftogt's request for Emeritus status. Ken has been an adjunct for the Department of History since 1989, teaching Humanities, American Civilization, and United States History survey courses. I am confident that in those twenty-five years he has taught more students than any other member of the department, since he regularly offered multiple large sections (approximately 120 students) of Humanities I, II, or III. He is also a published scholar, with three books on Iowa and the Civil War, and is currently writing a multi volume work examining Iowa's role in the Civil War. In addition, he has lectured regularly for Humanities Iowa and has been a member of the Iowa Humanities Board of Directors since 2009.

Ken has admirably represented the University of Northern Iowa across the state and has served the University and its students with skill and energy for a quarter century. He will be greatly missed by colleagues and students. I trust that you will honor his request for Emeritus status. If you have questions, please feel free to contact me.

Sincerely,

Robert F. Martin
